

AND A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM

LENGTH, 520 FEET.

The daughter of a rich manufacturer marries her lover against the will of her father. In anger the old man closes the door against the young couple and they start to keep house for themselves.

Too much spare time and bad company lead the young husband to become a drunkard.

He abuses his wife and little baby, whereupon the wife writes him a note, saying she is going back to her father, and will see him no more.

The next morning when the husband finds the note, he takes a vow not to drink again, and to lead a useful life.

He takes a position as night-watchman in a factory. He saves a man from certain death and over-powering two robbers leads them single handed to the police station. He is rewarded for his bravery by being made a reserve policeman.

While on duty he finds a child who lost its way, and has just brought the child to the police station when it rushes the mother, in whom he recognizes his wife.

The little child leads the mother to her father and also makes her grandfather join hands with her father.

The husband will never go astray again, because "a little child shall lead him."

Easy Money

LENGTH, 175 FEET.

A Nurse while sitting on a bench in the park falls asleep. The baby girl in her charge walks away and is picked up by a tramp who puts on the child his coat and hat. In the child's hand he places a tin cup and a sign "I am blind."

The child is much pitied by passers-by who freely drop money in the little tin cup. Every time a charitable inclined person gives an offering to the child the tramp empties the tin cup. When a policeman appears on the scene the tramp takes to his heels but is caught by the policeman and quickly relieved of the easily earned money.
